FULL TIME DEGREE: NUC APPROVES SEVEN COURSES

GROUP PHOTOGRAPH OF NUC VERIFICATION TEAM

The National Universities Commission (NUC) has approved the affiliation arrangement and the establishment of the full-time mode of some courses for Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin.

The courses which would be taken under the auspices of the Continuing Education Centre of the College in affiliation with Ekiti State University, Ado-Ekiti will be effective from the 2018/2019 academic session.

Courses approved are B.Sc.(Ed.) Chemistry Education, Biology Education, Economics Education. Others are B.Ed Social Studies Education, Nursery and Primary Education and B.A. (Ed) English and French Education.

The approval was as a result of the Resource Verification carried out in July this year. The NUC team totalling 29 cutting across different institutions of higher learning and disciplines meticulously carried out the verification.

While reacting to the approval, the Provost, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf thanked God for the success recorded in the areas where approval was given and expressed optimism that efforts would be made to ensure that more courses were approved before the end of the 2018/2019 academic session.

COLLEGE HOSTS SECURITY HEADS OF TERTIARY INSTITUTIONS IN KWARA

The Provost of Kwara Education, Ilorin symbiotic

College and Interswitch Yusuf made this known of interswitch visited him

The head of commended the College their company for over has been a beneficial emphasised that has been very rewarding to improve upon it. He added that no case of financial misappropriation or any form of ineptitude has been levelled against them since the inception of their relationship as a service provider for the College.

In his response, the Provost thanked Interswitch for being a perfect partner in progress, while recognising the long-standing relationship they have with the College. He decried the non-existence of any visible structure in the name of corporate social responsibility traceable to interswitch. Dr. Yusuf, therefore, urged interswitch to wake up to her responsibilities stressing that life itself is built on giving and taking.

Mr. Remi later requested the College to write interswitch on ways it can help develop the College to an enviable height. He promised such a request would be treated with dispatch as it will be pushed through the necessary quarters immediately.

State College of has called for a relationship between the service provider. Dr. when the representative in his office recently. Interswitch Mr. Remi for keeping faith with six years stressing that it relationship. He working with the College and therefore promised

2020 NATIONAL CONFERENCE, WICE PICKS HOSTING TICKETS, SOLICIT FINANCIAL SUPPORT.

The Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin Chapter of Women in Colleges of Education in Nigeria (WICE) has disclosed that the chapter will host the year 2020 National conference of the association. This hosting was unveiled when the chairperson Dr. (Mrs.) Ololade, R.O. with other executive members paid a courtesy call on the Provost recently.

Dr. Ololade used the opportunity to acquaint the Provost with the activities of the association especially the running of a day-care centre that caters for the children of both staff and students. She further used the avenue to highlight some of the challenges of the association which according to her included, but not limited to, lack of patronage of the day-care centre by both the staff and students. Others include the inability to pay the staff of the centre as at when due, the lean purse of the association and facilities to make the centre attractive to the pupils and parents.

She, therefore, requested the College management to come to the aid of the association by providing facilities such as Plasma Screen Television, plastic swing and a well-furnished secretariat to serve the daycare and the associations respectively. On the moral standard of the College, Dr. Ololade identified sexual harassment as a cankerworm, bedevilling the College. She said while WICE would not rest until the war is won, the Provost should see it as one of the challenges he would have to tackle decisively.

In his response, the Provost Dr AbdulRaheem Yusuf thanked WICE for the visit and promised that the association's challenges would be attended to as soon as the College's economy improves. He, however, added that they should look outwards to shop for Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) and philanthropists across the state and beyond to sponsor some of their programmes. He advised them to put up credible proposals to both local and foreign NGOs in an attempt to ensure that their yearnings and aspirations were met.

COOPERATIVE SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Members of the Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin Cooperative, Thrift and Credit Society have elected new executives to run the affairs of the society for the next one year.

The new executives took over from Mr. Jimoh Ahmed Ayinla led executives that have been in office since 15th May, 2015. The election started with the accreditation of eligible voters by 9:00am on Tuesday 23rd October, 2018. A total of 444 cooperators were accredited by 12:00 noon when the exercise closed.

Voting started at about 12:30pm after the leaders of the team from the Ministry of Commerce and Cooperatives had addressed the accredited voters. Although, arguments ensued on the mode of election between members of the electoral committee and representatives of the Ministry, it was amicably resolved based on the promise by the ministry to be fair to all.

Apart from the post of the Assistant General Secretary which was unopposed, all the other posts were keenly contested.

In a landslide victory, Mrs. Sanusi Oluwatoyin defeated her opponent for the post of President, Mr. Agboola Abubakadir with 349 votes to 64 votes.

Mrs. Kosemani Zainab had 290 votes as against 116 votes garnered by AbdulLateef Kareem to become the Vice President while Mrs. Akanbi Sarat of the Bursary Department became the Treasurer by defeating Ayinla Abdullahi Koroagba (aka Mukadam) with 272 votes to 130.

In her acceptance speech, the newly elected President; Mrs. Sanusi Oluwatoyin promised to serve with the fear of God and urged all cooperators to be patient with the new team as a lot needed to be carefully put in place.

KWACOEDi WATER FACTORY: NAFDAC EXPRESSES SATISFACTION

A team from the National Agency for Food, Drugs Administration and Control (NAFDAC), recently paid an inspection visit to the KWACOEDi water factory in the College to assess the level of compliance with the established standards for the production of table water.

While receiving the team in his office, the Provost of the College, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf reiterated the commitment of his administration to the fulfillment of his promise to make the College less dependent on government subvention. He told members of the team that all is now set for the take-off of the factory. He therefore urged them to expedite action on their report so that the machines installed in the factory could be put to use without delay.

Dr, Yusuf projected that the factory would conveniently take care of the water needs of staff, students and the host community when it starts full operation. He stated further that within the first three months of its operation, the factory would concentrate on the production of sachet water after which it would commence the production of table (Bottled) water.

The leader of the team; Mr. Abdulrahman Mohammed, an Assistant Chief Laboratory Technologist, expressed satisfaction with the equipments and other facilities on ground. He appreciated the market friendly environment of the College and urged her to take full advantage of this. He promised that the sample of the water his team has collected would be analysed in the agency's laboratory in Kaduna and the result would be communicated within ninety days.

Make Staff Welfare A Priority, Provost Urged

The Provost of the Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf has been urged to attach serious importance to the welfare of workers. This call was made by the Executive Secretary of the Tertiary Education Trust Fund, Dr. Abdullahi B. Baffa recently when the Provost paid a familiarisation visit to his Office.

The Executive Secretary who hosted the Provost and his team in his office congratulated Dr. Yusuf on his new appointment and prayed for his success while in office. He advised Dr. Yusuf to be patient, forward-looking and focused. He equally urged him to assemble an excellent team and be ready to accommodate a lot because the office he is occupying comes with its good, bad and ugly.

Dr. Baffa told the Provost that, to stay out of trouble, the latter should understand financial regulation, respect the provision therein and confine himself to the laws of the College and institutions or agencies that the College would be interfacing with.

In his response, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf thanked the Executive Secretary and his team for the warm reception and all the words of advice he has given. On staff welfare, the Provost said, as a Comrade who believes that an injury to one is an injury to all, he had not and will never play with the welfare of his staff. The Provost equally used the opportunity to seek clarification on some grey areas of TETFUND Intervention. The Executive Secretary attended to all the issues raised by the Provost and promised to be of assistance to the College always.

The session was attended by some TETFUND Staff, Directors and members of the Provost entourage.

Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf stressing a point while speaking in the office of the Executive Secretary of TETFUND

NCE: A CRUCIAL STAGE IN EDUCATION SAYS BAPPA

Executive Secretary of the National Commission for College of Education, Prof. Aliyu Muhammadu Bappa has described the Nigeria Certificate of Education (NCE) as a vital stage in the educational development of Nigeria. This assertion was made when the Provost of Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf paid a familiarization visit to the commission as part of his visits to Commissions and Agencies that have relationship with the College.

Bappa noted that, the NCE Curriculum is tailored to train teachers that take care of the Basic Education Unit of our educational system; hence if they are not well trained we may not get it right.

While describing Kwara, as the cradle of NCE Education in Northern Nigeria, he said the State is known to have produced educators at different levels in the country.

In his congratulatory speech to the Provost, Prof. Bappa implored him to work harder to stay a top noting that getting to the top is not as difficult as maintaining the status. He promised to cooperate and partner with the Provost to ensure that good products emerge from the College.

In his response the Provost Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf who described the Executive Secretary as the Provost of Provosts promised not to disappoint the Executive Secretary in particular and the Commission in general. He equally used the opportunity to put forward some requests to the Executive Secretary who promptly granted some and promised to look into the others.

In the Provost's entourage were the Registrar Alh. Ibrahim A. Abiodun, the Deputy Registrar Office of the Provost who doubles as Head of Corporate Affairs Unit Mr. Lawal, S. Abayomi and the Senior Assistant Registrar Senior Establishment Mr. Jibril Jimada.

DEMYSTIFYING THE SELECTION PROCESS

Thursday 26th July 2018 would not be forgotten so soon in the history of Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin.

Students in their hundreds trooped out to elect a new set of Students' Union executive that would pilot the affairs of the Union for the 2018/2019 academic session.

Although the phenomenon is as old as the College, it took a new dimension this time with the introduction of the electronic voting.

On the eve of the election, eligible students were all given secret codes that were personal to individuals as voting pins.

On the day of the election, the chairman of the Independent Students' Electoral Commission (ISEC) Lagbe Saheed in collaboration with the Computer and Information Technology Centre, Student Affairs Unit, Plat Technologies, Security Unit and other relevant stakeholders deployed all their arsenal to ensure a hitch-free election.

As if nothing was going on in the College, the students voted quietly for candidates of their choice. Unlike in the past, where anointed candidates were selected against the wish of the entire student populace, students this time expressed their wishes while no willing electorate was neither harassed nor disenfranchised. At the close of voting, in the presence of a large crowd of students gathered at the College's multipurpose hall, results were announced, and winners emerged. The students, who expressed their acceptance of the new process, showed their joy by jubilating to the Provost office to say thanks for a job well done. It was a demystification of the selection process.

This groundbreaking move and other exciting stories are what we have packaged for you in this edition of our Bulletin.

SALE OF TEXTBOOKS:

LECTURERS QUERIED

About six lecturers (name withheld) have been queried for contravening the College rules on the sale of textual materials.

Upon his resumption in office as the College Provost, Dr AbdulRaheem Yusuf put in place over ten committees among which was the College Editorial Board saddled with, among other things, the responsibility of vetting and regulating prices for books that would be sold to the students.

The Committee completed its work and a report was submitted on the price and mode of selling the edited books. In it, it was clearly stated that no students should be forced to buy any material while it remains a punishable offence to sell textbook above the College approved prices.

While some of the alleged lecturers forced the students to buy books, others sold above the approved prices. The intelligence report however exposed them and with evidence at the disposal of the College, and their final confessional statements, it was proved beyond reasonable doubt that they were guilty as charged.

The Provost, in his magnanimity, tempered justice with mercy by approving the recommendation of the management to warn the affected staff. He, however, reiterated his commitment to discipline and warned that there will be no sacred cows in the dispensation of justice in the College.

SOCIAL DIARY

The editor, on behalf of the Council, Management, Staff and Students of the College wishes to congratulate the following staff that added a year to their ages in the month of September and October. May you witness more promising and prosperous year. Happy Birthday to you all in arrears and advance.

NEW DEANS ELECTED

The six schools in the College have elected new Deans to run their affairs for the next two years. The election was consensus-like due to its non competitive nature as none of the returned Deans was opposed. Interestingly, this process is not out of place at its in line with the enabling laws of the College.

According to the Chairman of the electoral committee, Mr. Silas Jiyah, each of the six schools presented a candidate for the election. At the end of the process, the following Chief Lecturers emerged as Deans of their various schools; Dr. Seriki Alhassan Bolaji; School of Arts and Social Sciences, Mr. Kolo Zacheaus – School of Early Childhood Care Education and PES, Dr.(Mrs.) Bosede Oyedepo- School of Education, Mr. Oyeyemi S.O.-School of Languages, Mr. Adebimpe Bolakale- School of Sciences, Mr. Ayorinde S. O. School of Vocational and Technical Education. In the acceptance speech of the Deans, Dr. Seriki Alhassan Bolaji of the School of Arts and Social Sciences thanked members of his school for finding him worthy of the post and promised not to betray the confidence reposed in him.

In a similar development, Dr. (Mrs.) Oyedepo Bosede who was elected the Dean of the School of Education promised to ensure that the school maintains its status of “Mother of all Schools” in everything that comes out of the school. The Deans are expected to serve in the capacity for a renewable term of two years.

KWCOEDI WATER PROJECT: COLLEGE PARTNERS AD-DOMAN COOPERATIVE SOCIETY

The Ad-doman Co-operative Society, in partnership with the College has laid the foundation for a joint venture in the College. The enterprise which comprised of table water and bread factories will soon commence production of Kwcoedi water and bread respectively.

The Honourable Commissioner for Tertiary Education, Science and Technology, Barrister Abdullah Alikinla in his speech at the official foundation laying ceremony commended the Provost, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf for giving room for beautiful innovations in the College. He said with this, the reliance on government will be reduced to the barest minimum.

The provost, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf, expressed happiness that the College of his dream is gradually becoming a reality. He appreciated the giant stride taken by Ad-doman and promised that the College would do everything possible to fulfil its own part of the agreement.

PROVOST CHARGES COLLEGE SECURITY ON ALL ROUND PROTECTIVE MEASURE FOR LIVES AND PROPERTIES

Dr, AbdulRaheem Yusuf has charged the entire security apparatus of the College to change entirely from their current orientation to an all-round protective policing in line with current trends in the 21st century to guarantee the security of lives and properties of staff and students.

The charge was made recently in his office while holding a crucial meeting with the Security Unit of the College. He said it is high time their mode of operations within the College community as a whole changed to allow for best practices.

Dr.Yusuf identified that there are lots of people thronging in and out of the College with the intention of wrecking havoc. He, therefore, warned the security officers to always be at their duty posts as at when due as abscondment from beat by any of them shall be met with appropriate sanctions.

He added that any personnel assigned to a particular beat would be responsible and liable for whatever happened in such a place be it robbery, theft and other vices capable of affecting the peace of the College. He stated further that any security personnel found wanting in any way, shall be handed over to the police. He, however, promised that for efficiency, the unit would be provided with at least whistles with which they can alert one another for assistance during critical situations or attack by intruders pending the time the College economy improves to accommodate more of their demands.

He encouraged them to be upright at all times and commended officers who had bought uniforms for themselves requesting that names of those officers be forwarded to him. He warned that every security on duty must put on their uniforms.

In his response, the Chief Security Officer of the College, Mallam Issa Abdulrahman DSP (Rtd.) thanked the Provost and promised that his men will work better than before to ensure the security of life and property in the college.

TRCN INDUCTS 108 GRADUATE TEACHERS OF THE COLLEGE

Graduands of the Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin Professional Diploma in Education (PDE) programme have recently been inducted into the teaching profession by the Teachers Registration Council of Nigeria (TRCN). The event took place at the Multi-purpose hall B of the College where about 108 inductees of the 2015/2016 combined academic sessions took their oath of allegiance.

The Provost of the College, in his opening speech, informed the guests and inductees present that the induction which was his very first as the Provost of the College, would contribute to quality assurance and control in the teaching profession. He added that leadership is about growing new leaders and the greatest achievement of being a teacher is to be able to produce better teachers and develop leaders for the community.

He further stated that monitoring is essential in teaching and to sustain the vision and mission of the college, teachers must learn to empower leadership through effective teaching in their respective schools as teaching is all about supporting the passion and commitment towards sustainable development.

The Provost said that for the inductees to make a difference in their respective places of work, they should initiate innovative teaching and teach with passion, commitment and high sense of responsibility and professionalism.

Administering the Oath of Allegiance, the representative of the Registrar/CEO of the TRCN, Mallam Adamu Bello congratulated the inductees and commended the College management for sustaining the legacy of the teaching and learning process. Adamu, who charged the inductees to be good ambassadors of their alma mater, urged them to embrace a high level of professionalism that will enable them to be at shoulder level with other professionals.

The guest lecturer, who is also the Dean of School of Basic and Remedial Studies of the College, Dr. (Mrs.) Ojibara N.B.L, enjoined the inductees to embrace the 21st-century professionalism to enhance their skills. She stated that teachers' voices are driving forces for educational improvement and development, hence the need for them to guide the profession jealously.

In his vote of thanks, the representative of the inductees, Abdulraheem Nurudeen had earlier thanked the College management, TRCN, the leadership of PDE, the lecturers and the entire staff of PDE and the College as a whole for their cooperation and the provision of enabling learning environment throughout the period of their academic sojourn in the College. He promised, on behalf of other inductees, to remain worthy ambassador of their alma mater.

Earlier in his speech, the commissioner expressed optimism that the music students have the potential to positively launder the College and the state’s image at large if the tempo is maintained. He added that such performances if properly handled, is capable of improving Internally Generated Revenue, (IGR) in the College. He charged the students to always inject wisdom into their performances.

While, speaking at the occasion, the external examiner who is also a Professor of Music from the department of performing arts, University of Ilorin, Professor Ikibe commended the College leadership for encouraging academic excellence in the College especially in the music department. He applauded the students for having done a fantastic job in their presentation and choice of the theme, the “Ancient Pot”.

The performance had in attendance, parents of the performing students, Deans, Directors from the College, Governing Council Chairman 's representatives, college staff, students and the public.

EKSU- ILORIN AFFILIATE COLLEGE
MATRICULATES 136 STUDENTS

The Vice Chancellor of Ekiti State University, Ado-Ekiti, Professor Samuel Oye Bandele has charged the newly matriculated students of the University in Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin affiliate centre to shun vices and make good use of the opportunities presented to them by their admission.

Professor Bandele gave this advice in his address at the matriculation ceremony of the 2018 sandwich contact session intakes. He urged them to work hard so that they can finish their studies on record time and have their results as at when due. He encouraged them to cultivate an enviable reading culture and moral uprightness that the University is noted for.

In his own address, the Provost of the College, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf congratulated the students for scaling the admission hurdles. He reiterated the importance of matriculation numbers to the matriculating students and urged them to protect it the way they will protect their bank BVNs.

Dr. Yusuf reminded the students that they are the representatives of their different families, hence, the need for them to do everything humanly possible to be good ambassadors of their families.

He warned the students against cultism, examination malpractices and other unethical behaviour saying that the College still maintains her zero tolerance to social vices.

The matriculation ceremony, the 20th of its kind was well attended by families and friends of the matriculating students, It was graced by some management staff of Ekiti State University, Ado-Ekiti and Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin.

CE GETS NEW DIRECTOR

The Provost, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf has approved the appointment of Mrs. Sanusi Oluwatoyin as the new Director for the Continuing Education Centre (CEC) of the Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin in affiliation with the Ekiti State University, Ado-Ekiti. She replaced Mr. Yemi Ale, a Chief Lecturer in the Yoruba Department of the School of Languages who retired from the service of the College recently.

Until her appointment, Mrs Sanusi was the Deputy Director of examinations in the centre. She is a Chief Lecturer in the Department of Christian Religious Studies in the School of Arts and Social Sciences. According to some staff of the centre who spoke with our correspondents, the appointment of Mrs. Sanusi by the Provost was one of the best things that could happen to the Centre at a time like this. They described her as a team player who believes in “lets do it together”

She was also described as a disciplinarian who has zero tolerance for examination malpractices and other unethical behaviors. Some Sandwich students who spoke with our correspondents expressed joy over the appointment of Mrs. Sanusi Oluwatoyin describing her as a loving mother

EKSU DCEP DIRECTOR VISITS THE COLLEGE

The new Director of the Directorate of Continuing Education Programme (DCEP), Ekiti State University, Professor M.S. Omirin has paid a courtesy visit to the Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin. This forms part of the familiarisation visits to institutions under his Directorate. He was accompanied by his Deputy Director, Dr. J.O. Fatoba and the secretary M.O. Olowoselu.

Prof. Omirin said the primary objective of his visit to the College was to make himself known to the College, as well as those he would be working with. Omirin assured the College of his commitment to tackling most challenges being faced, especially those within his capability.

The Provost, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf, who first congratulated Prof. Omirin on his new appointment welcomed him to the College, appreciated Ekiti State University for their concern, understanding and urged the Director to extend our gratitude to the Vice Chancellor.

In his remarks, the Director, Continuing Education Centre of the College, Mr. Ezekiel Yemi Ale thanked Professor Omirin and his entourage for the visit and used the avenue to appeal for a reduction in the honorarium been collected by EKSU staff when they visit our College. He equally solicited the support of the director for quick release of the result and downward review of the school fees by the University. The Director promised to present the College requests to the University as soon as he returns to EKSU.

2018/2019 STUDENTS UNION EXECUTIVES INAUGURATED

The newly elected students' union executives of the college to oversee the affairs of their colleagues for the next one year were recently inaugurated at the College boardroom.

These set of executives were elected through a unique and new process called online voting. You will recall that the college Provost, Dr. Abdulraheem Yusuf discouraged the old method and introduced e-voting to replace it, saying that transparency is the hallmark of every process of election among students.

The Inauguration of the newly elected executives was conducted by the Students Affair Unit of the college with all members of the college management in attendance.

The representative of the Provost who is also the Deputy Provost Administration, Dr. M.B Taiwo congratulated the new executives of the students' union for emerging winners in the unique election that brought them into power. He implored them to be prudent, dedicated and to operate a transparent administrative style.

He warned them to make their tenure a hitch-free one that will not be marred with crisis. He urged them to take their academic work seriously because it is their primary aim of coming to the college. Dr. Taiwo implored them to work tirelessly for the progress of the college and to co-operate with the college management in her bid to take the college to greater heights.

The newly elected executives were presented with certificates of return as duly elected in a free, fair and unique, students' union election in the college while the Legal Unit of the college, administered oath of office.

Why We Adopted E-voting For Students Union Election-

The management of the Kwara State College of Education, Ilorin has disclosed the reasons why the institution adopted electronic voting during last Students' Union (SU) election.

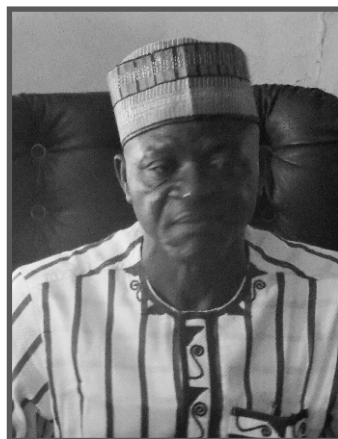

Speaking with our reporter recently, the Provost of the College, Dr. AbdulRaheem Yusuf said he opted for the system because he has tested it as the Sub-dean, Student Affairs of the University of Ilorin.

According to him, when you look at the history of students' union election in Nigeria, it is usually accompanied with crisis among students. To avoid this, the idea of e-voting was initiated when he was at the University of Ilorin to prevent post-election turmoils. It was the same gesture that was extended here by the AbdulRaheem led administration.

He said his vision is to produce students with noble ideas and to ensure this, there is the need to put in place electioneering processes that would not divide them. He stated further that, the process is not costly. According to him, the cost of the election proper was N35,000. This made the students have a surplus of N174,000:00 out of which honorarium was paid to all those that participated in the election and a balance of N100,000:00 was paid back into the students' union account.

He, therefore, advised the Independent National Electoral Commission (INEC) to embrace e-voting in subsequent elections in the country. Speaking on modalities for the election, the Dean, Students Affairs, Dr. Abdulraheem Folorunsho said the election was free, fair and credible referring to it as the first of its kind known to him in the history of the College.

Akanbi Muhammed Shitta from the Department of English/Social Studies defeated Ashileke Ibrahim of English/Political Science department with 830-630 votes for the post of the President while Aliyu Ismail Olomoda was voted Secretary with 819 votes.

WICE HOLD TWO-DAYS SEMINAR FOR WOMEN

Women have been charged to take proper care of their children and live a healthy life to prevent avoidable medical challenges. The commissioner for Woman Affairs Hajia Taibat Ahmed made the call recently at a seminar organised by the National Association of Women in College of Education, Kwara State Chapter.

Mrs. Ahmed who was the special guest of honour reminded woman of the powers that reside in them and urged them to use the power positively for the benefit of mankind. As the natural leader in a home, she tasked them to take charge of their home by giving training and imparting knowledge that will last for a lifetime on the children.

Delivering a lecture on Cervical and Breast Cancer, Dr. Adesokan Ayo from Leah Foundation said cervical cancer can be prevented by being physically active for at least 30 minutes daily, avoiding being overweight and consumption of sugary drimics. On breast cancer, Dr. Adesokan pointed out that regular breast cancer screening is critical to help in early detection which in form helps in its successful treatment.

In his remarks, the representative of the Provost, Deputy Provost Administration Dr. M.B Taiwo thanked WICE for impacting meaningfully in the life of women. Taiwo said the association started these excellent works since 1989 and has never relented its effort at giving meaning to people's life.

Finally, Dr. Taiwo requested the support of the Honourable Commissioner for Women affairs Hajia Zainab Ahmed for the association to continue with its excellent work until the desired goal is achieved.
