Introduction

The virtue of knowledge acquisition in Islām cannot be overemphasized. More than any other religion of the world, Islām places high premium on seeking knowledge. According to Malik (2002), the importance, which Islām attaches to education can be explained from three sources: the Qur'ān, prophetic traditions and the saying of the wise men. The Quranic injunction centres on the virtue of knowledge and the prophet regarded its acquisition as a great form of Jihād. Tbn Anas was reported in one of his wise sayings to have said "Every glory unsupported by learning will soon vanish and be replaced by humiliation" (Malik, 2000 P. 88-89). Base on this fact, the house of Arqam in Makkah and the prophetic mosque in Madinah served as centres of learning for the first generation of the Muslims. Later, various schools and mosques emerged in post-prophetic era to promote the culture of learning. It is remarkable to note the influence of Baytul-Hikmah (House of wisdom) established by Caliph Ma'mun and those of the Nizamiyyah Academic in Bagdad and Al-Azhar University in Cairo. Lateef (1996) asserts that the consciousness of the Muslim generations on knowledge has helped to produce men like Ibn Sina, Ibn Rushd, Al-Ghazali, Al-Auzai a and host of others, whose contributions to the world of Religion, International Relations, socio- economic sciences among others are of immense impact to the world as a legacy or Islam (P.2).

In the Nigerian environment however, numerous scholars have made enormous ac promoting the cultural heritage of Islam and Islamic education. Some of them are Shaykin Usman bn Faduye (d. 1817), Abdullahi bn Foduye. Muhammad Nasir Kabara of Kano, Shaykh Kamaldeen Al-Adaby (d. 2005). Shaykh Adam Abdullahi Al-Ilori (d. 1992) Shaykh Muhammad Muqaddam Al-Maimasa (d. 1984) to mention but a view. Gambari M A (2004), cited that Ilorin town has produced venerable scholars of Islām who had contributed immensely to Islamic education, among whom are, Shaykh Alimi bn Janta. Shaykh Muhammad Yambu and others. Shaykh Abdulateef Maikabara, one of the prominent scholars of Ilorin emirate of his time and his personality is the focus of this paper. We hope that this paper will serve as guide and inspiration for young Muslim scholars who aspire to disseminate Islamic message. Shaykh Abdulateef Maikabara is believed to have made certain contributions to the development of Islamic education during his lifetime. It was reported that he had written some works in the fields of Arabic language and Islamic sciences. In addition, a great number of students and disciples are ascribed to him. All these summed together, accounted for the reasons for conducting this research on the personality of Shaykh Abdulateef Maikabara with the aims of examining his contributions to the certain contributions to the development of development of Arabic and Shaykh Abdullateef Maikabara was one of the great scholars of Islam in Ilorin that attempt reconciliation between Shari'ah and Sufism. His great erudition is seen in his acquisition of profound knowledge in several branches of Islamic education. This virtue, as we observe, has helped him a lot in carrying out his Da'wah work successfully. Closely related to this is his good manner and attitude that made him acceptable to the generality of the society.

Moreover, Shaykh Abdullateef Maikabara was able to strike a balance between the application of knowledge and practice. He was neither an extremist nor a negligent. He showed concerted effort in rendering Islam comprehensively to every Muslim. He made the Muslims of his age realize that condemnation of scholars, Muslim brothers cannot bring great achievement in the propagation of Islam. This ideology of Shaykh Maikaraba was also expressed by Al-Ilori, that the Salafis need to create mutual understanding with the Sufi community since their population cannot be ignored among the Muslim Ummah (Al-Ilori 2006; P. 135). In the same vein, he states that for achievement of successful da'wah, individuals need to work in unison with one another with a clear plan and a sense of direction. It is only through this, that tremendous energy they expend could yield positive result (Talib, 1991; p. 37).

The intellectual achievements of the scholars most especially in the aspect of Sufism have been thoroughly discussed. The contribution of Shaykh Abdullateef Maikabara to educational enlightenment, most especially in the aspect Da'wah practices was highly appreciated. It could have been more meaningful as observed, if the great Shaykh could appeal to the opponent of Tasawwuf inform of healthy dialogue. Not only that, the approach would mitigate the tension between youth and the sufi scholars, but also enhance the spirit of Islamic scholarship. It is hoped that Islamic da'wah activities will grow steadily if many of the present 'Dua't could emulate the attitude of Shaykh Al-Kabari in knowledge application and da'wah methodology of constructive approach to Islamic propagation.

Recommendations

With regard to the personality of Shaykh Abdullateef Maikabara under study, the community of Ilorin town and its neighboring cities need to put much premium on Islamic Education. It is the invaluable legacy of Islam, which every Muslim community ought to cherish dearly. Every members of the community should maintain concerted effort to ensure that the cultural values of Islam are uplifted. This could only be properly ascertained when respect and honour are given to Muslim scholars. The present day students need a lot to emulate from the great Shaykh. Most importantly, the wisdom of da'wah methodology should be adopted from his lifestyle. The students of today, who are potential scholars should be zealous in acquisition of knowledge with utmost interest and goal to effect positive changes in their mediate environment. Similarly, the government should encourage religious education. It is hoped that this would improve the moral standard of Nigerian citizenry and pave way for Socio-political and economic progress of the Nation. The government should give adequate Support to religious bodies in their diligent efforts to eschew religious bigotry, fanaticism and violence, which could invariably destabilized peace and tranquility.

The present day Mallams are to establish institution and enhance Islamic scholarship with a better approach to promote Islamic interest. They need to build on the disparagement of the efforts and commitment of some Muslim scholars, particularly the local or traditional Mallams who do more havoc to Islamic work than it would repair, acknowledgement of other contributions is indeed at hallmark of great erudition, and this was observed in the personality trait of Shaykh Abdulateef Maikabara.

Furthermore, students and researchers should be encouraged to embark on research of this nature where findings be made on notable Muslim scholars so that their contributions would be brought to limelight. In addition, a foundation should be established in the name of Shaykh Abdulateef Maikabara where students and interested researchers will be sponsored. Efforts should be made to see that the works of Shaykh Abdulateef Maikabara are kept and made available for further research.
